
Which challenges for the future studies of protostars and young proto-planetary disks ?

Anaëlle Maury*¹

¹Unité Mixte CEA/CNRS AIM, Université Paris Saclay – CEA – France

Abstract

I will review recent advances in our understanding of the physics at work during the early stages of the star and planet formation processes, and highlight key questions remaining to be addressed by future studies and observational facilities.

*Speaker